Serco Group plc ("Serco")

Awarded Major Road Traffic Management Contract

Serco is pleased to announce The Highways Agency has awarded it the £160m contract for its national Traffic Control Centre (TCC) Project.

The Public Private Partnership with the Agency will improve the quality of information available to road users by introducing technology that will assist them in making travel and transport choices, thus resulting in a better match between demand and road capacity.

The contract is for a period of 10 years and comprises a 29 month design and build phase followed by a seven year seven month management and operation contract.

A special purpose company known as Traffic Information Services (TiS) Ltd, wholly owned by Serco, has been established to deliver the project. Halcrow Group Ltd is supporting Serco with the provision of traffic engineering expertise.

Commenting on the award, Kevin Beeston - Serco's Chief Executive said:

"The award of the TCC Project further adds to our expanding range of services with the UK and overseas governments and specifically with The Highways Agency in managing intelligent road systems and draws on our long experience in the integration of systems and service solutions."
