

Beyond
interesting

Serco is an international services company combining sound commercial know-how with a deep public service ethos. Our exceptional staff, galvanised by great leadership, improve services by managing people, processes, technology and assets more effectively. Above all, we help instill a more stimulating, high performance culture where people feel they can really make a difference.

Nuclear Engineers

Competitive salaries + relocation assistance

Everywhere you look in Serco Technical and Assurance Services, you will find diverse, challenging and beyond interesting work. At 10 sites around the country, we have world-renowned people working on a wide range of leading edge independent safety, risk and environmental management, plant performance, structural integrity and scientific and engineering services.

The expertise of our people covers almost every branch of engineering and science. Our diversity of skills and wealth of experience in a number of market sectors allows us to design and deliver services that meet our customers' requirements and is the key differentiator that has underpinned our unrivalled success.

We are currently looking for high calibre professional people at all levels within our business to join us on a whole range of challenging specialist, technical and engineering projects delivered across the complete breadth of the Nuclear sector.

We would be happy to hear from applicants who are interested in either permanent or contract opportunities.

Open up to a world of surprises. Go to www.serco.com/technicalassurance/careers for further information, quoting reference DT11987. You'll be surprised how far we can take you.

Serco is an equal opportunities employer.

Bringing service to life

serco