Serco Awarded Federal Air Traffic Control Contract in North America

Serco Group plc ("Serco") has been selected by the United States Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to continue to operate air traffic control towers throughout the western USA.

The 54 air traffic control towers Serco will continue to operate stretch from Alaska to California to Colorado. This five-year contract is valued at over $100m.

Christopher Hyman, Serco Chief Executive said: "North America represents a significant opportunity for Serco and this contract renewal demonstrates our ability to deliver quality services and so build long term customer relationships, which are the bedrock of our success."

Notes to editors

Serco has received numerous awards relating to its operation of the FAA towers. Serco was recognized with the Willie F. Card FAA Contract Service Award each of the two years since its inception. The award was presented to Williams Gateway Airport this past year, as it best exemplified customer service and safety in the contract tower industry.

Four facilities received the "None in a Million" award, meaning no operational errors were made in the handling of a million aircraft operations.

Serco is one of the world's leading public service companies operating on a global basis in a diverse range of sectors, including defence, aerospace and science, public transport and traffic management, health, education, justice and local government.
